DRAYTON VALLEY, ALBERTA
TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1971

Granby Voyageurs Enjoy Visit Here

Young Voyageurs from Granby, Quebec, have enjoyed a holiday week in Drayton Valley and area that included many highlights.

The group arrived here last Tuesday morning at 3:30 a.m. and will leave for home Wednesday afternoon.

A Drayton Valley group from the Frank Maddock High School, 21-strong, including two from Seba Beach, will leave on Tuesday, July 13th for a 10-day visit to Toronto and Ottawa.

As well as a round of parties, swimming and barbeque, members of the Quebec group enjoyed an airplane ride over the area as well as a tour of the oilfield. A dinner hosted by the town on Tuesday and a dance later in the evening will be the last official functions before departure on Wednesday of this week.

A trip to Jasper, scheduled for three days, was cut short by cold rainy weather. The group, accompanied by members of host families, travelled to Jasper by bus on Thursday, July 1st.

They were to have returned on Saturday afternoon, but one very cold night in tents was enough, and the tour returned to Drayton Valley on Friday.

A trip on the Sky Tram started out well, but when half-way up the view was blacked out by swirling snow clouds.

The Quebec travellers, did however, enjoy their views of Alberta's Rockies. A swim at Miette Hot Pool also provided an interesting highlight.

The Granby group was well received by Drayton Valley young people, and despite some language handicaps, many friendships were born.

BUCK LAKE STAMPEDE WEDNESDAY

The annual Buck Lake Stampede will be held Wednesday, July 7th, with a parade at 11:00 a.m. to start the day.

The F.C.A. approved rodeo events include saddle bronc riding, wild cow milking, bull riding, bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, calf roping and a girls' barrel race. A number of horse and pony races and gymkhana events are also scheduled.

A midway will also be part of the full day's activities that will wind-up with a dance in the evening.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Mrs. Nancy Jacobs returned last week from a four-day Convention of the Canadian Photographer's Association held at the Bayshore Inn, Vancouver.

Approximately 500 persons attended the convention from across Canada as well as many from the United States.

Parkland to Award Bursaries

The Agricultural Committee of the County of Parkland has announced plans for the awarding of four $200 Agricultural Bursaries.

The bursaries are available to students residing in the county and may be used to further education in Home Economics; Agricultural or Veterinary training leading to a degree; Agriculture leading to a diploma; and program relating to agriculture in Community Colleges.

Applications will close on July 26. Complete details will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Minor Hockey Slate Named

The Annual Minor Hockey Association meeting was held recently at the Centennial Arena. Major topic for the evening was the election of officers.

The following were elected: Doug Hall, President; Bill Desbrisay, Secreatry; Orest Heyday, Treasurer; and Directors, Norman Swendsied, Don Bestor, Hill Innis, Elaine Kobernick, Mike Karbonec and Jim Crough.

Plans are now underway for the 1971-72 season, the preliminary plans are for a one week hockey school for all minor hockey enthusiasts during mid-October to start the season.

Ambulance Board Regular Meet

A regular meeting of the Breton Drayton Valley Ambulance Board was held in the Drayton Valley Town Hall on Saturday, June 5th.

A report by operator Nick Urchychyn showed a total of eleven ambulance trips since the service was instituted.

The board discussed and decided that present charges levied for ambulance services would be for transporting patients only. Extras such as oxygen or intra-venous, will be charged separately.

TOWN COUNCIL VARIED AGENDA

Town Council met on June 24th and the first item on the agenda was consideration of a request for paving of 43rd street.

As debentures for 1971's paving and sidewalk program had been completed and applied for before the request was made, it was decided that the street would not be included in this years paving. However, Council decided to improve the street and treat it for dust control. The town engineer was requested to obtain costs of the dust lay program using a cold-mix base course.

Councillor Bob Huber, Public Works Chairman, brought Council up to date on the river water program. Results of river-side pits have not been too optimistic, but it was felt that the equipment used was not large enough to dig pits of sufficient depth to obtain satisfactory river seepage.

Consulting Engineers have also expressed concern about using an 8-inch pipeline to the town from the river and it was decided that Mr. Huber would go deeper into the analysis of 8-inch capacity.

Council heard complaints received regarding drivers screeching tires, and students littering private property on their way to and from school. The "yield" sign at 47th street and 50th avenue has become obliterated by tree branches and will be moved to a more visible location.

Mobile homes, including applications to place them on private industrial property, were the subject of considerable discussion. A report on available space, conditions, and possible need for additional parking, will be ready for the next meeting and Council is then expected to endeavour to settle the whole question.

Council will proceed with annexation of the balance of Robert A. Johnson property, the west ½ of N.E. 5-49-7-W5, south of H. Deby farm. The annexation is being made at the request of Mr. Johnson and is agreed to by Council, which is interested in the possibility of small holdings in the area.

Monday, August 2nd, 1971, was declared a civic holiday in the town.

Council also ratified the agreement governing joint use of the new High School, between the Town and the County of Parkland.

Council authorized the sale of lots 5 and 6, Block 48, Plan 3242 M.C. to Johnson Real Estate.

Teachers Give Assent to Possible Strike Action

Teachers in the North Central Western Alberta School Authorities Association (N C W C A S A A) voted a decisive 90% in favor of possible strike action in a secret ballot conducted last week by the Board of Industrial Relations.

The School Authorities Association represents the school jurisdictions of Barrhead, Westlock, Thibeau, Lac St. Anne, Parkland Drayton Valley Separate, Jasper and Grande Cache, and contains approximately 820 teachers.

The teacher's decision to apply to the Board of Industrial Relations for a conducted strike vote was made after school trustees involved had rejected a Conciliation Commission Recommendation. (Teachers had accepted the Conciliation Recommendation by a 94% vote.)

Trustees then gave teachers a counter-proposal which the teachers claim would have required them to accept conditions of employment almost entirely at the whim of the trustees, and teach for salaries they say are well below those received by many of their teaching collegues in other areas of the province.

"The unfortunate thing about the whole situation," according to D. J. Corse, Representative Bargaining Agent for the teachers, "is that it could have been easily prevented. Trustees were given the right under the new School Act to form employer bargaining zones, and did so despite the expressed fear by teachers that such large zones would be too impersonal."

"As a result," continued Mr. Corse, "you have the ludicrous situation in which the Alberta School Trustees Association has spawned eight such employer monsters in Alberta, which involve so many teachers and trustees, and cover such vast geographical distances, that their heads are scarcely recognizable from their tails."

D. V. Highlights

BY MRS. EDITH DEBY

A Howatt family reunion was held at Mr. and Mrs. Ron Howatt's farm at Easyford on July 1st. Thirty members of the family attended from Devon, Edmonton and Stony Plain.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Vowk had Mrs. Robert Forbes of Waskatenau, as their house guest last week. Mrs. Forbes made a special point of visiting her friend, Mrs. Wiechert, who has been in hospital for some time. Mrs. Forbes made many friends during the years she taught school in this district and it is regretted that her visit couldn't have been longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Williamson called at Mr. Chester Miller's home for an all too brief visit. Wesley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ossie Williamson. He grew up in Drayton Valley. Wesley is an electrician working at the pulp and paper mill in Ocean Falls. The Williamsons have three daughters.

Very best good wishes for future happiness go to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cameron, nee Valerie Getzinger, who were married on July 2nd. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cameron, of Rocky Rapids, and Valerie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Getzinger.

Stanley Sanford Watson, of Edmonton, formerly of Violet Grove passed away on July 1st in Los Angeles in his ninety sixth year. Besides his wife, Margaret, he leaves three sons and two daughters: Cecil, Bert and Frank all in British Columbia and Mrs. Leslie (Doris) Cambell and Mrs. James (Irene) Edkins both of Edmonton. There are fifteen grandchildren, fourteen great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 7th from Howard and McBride's Chapel. Interment will be held in the Field of Honour in Beachmount Cemetery. Mr. Watson was a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs Frederick Dressler, of Hay River, on the arrival of a son, born in Edmonton on June 28th.

Miss Connie Jones Pickup has obtained a job with Alberta Government Telephones in Edmonton. She started work July 2.

Members of the Dunington Ladies Group were hostesses on Tuesday evening at a party in honour of newly weds, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Stordalsvoll, Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Ted Tucker, raised gales of laughter with his account of Ole's courtship and marriage.

As the case with all good story tellers Ted believes the best of tales can be improved with a bit of embellishment. Congratulations, Ted, on a job well done. Music for dancing was supplied by Edwin Eriksson, Agnes Stordalsvoll, Jean Hallett, Irene Robinson, Dolly Hines and Vern Bartlett. Three good friends of the bride and groom arrived unexpectedly from Creston. One of these was Mr. Clint Vickrey formerly a resident of the district. A purse was presented to the Stordalsvolls by Mr. Tucker on behalf of the guests.

Teachers Give Assent

"For example, "He asked, "can you imagine anything more ridiculous than a school trustee from Westlock or Stony Plain purporting to understand, let along negotiate, conditions of employment for teachers in Jasper or Grande Cache?"

"The majority of the school jurisdictions, such as in the larger cities and towns and in the Yellowhead School Division, that did not join the trustee employer associations, have successfully completed negotiations with their teachers," he said. (Seven of the eight trustee employer associations are in a dispute situation.)

Mr. Corse stated that should teachers in the NCWASAA decide to strike, they could not legally do so until they have given two working days notice to their employers. Also, teachers favor mediation so that strike action will not be necessary.

However, he stressed, teachers in the NCWASAA have taught the entire school term since September 1970 under 1969 contracts and will certainly expect a more realistic attitude on the part of trustees when school resumes next fall.

Farewell Service

Pastor Snell held his farewell service in the Drayton Valley Church of God on Sunday evening June 27th. Pastor Dale Mohr presented the Snells with a gift from the Drayton Valley Ministerial Group at the close of the service.

Following this a buffet lunch was held in the Snells honour.

We will miss them but trust they will be a blessing in their new pastorate in Kelowna, B. C.

BURTONSVILLE NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. John Droudie of Edmonton were recent visitors at Emma Homme's.

Mr. and Mrs. Zolton Petriko and family of Edmonton were Sunday visitors at David and Eleanor Tattersall's and E. Homme's.

The Burtonsville W.M.S. held their monthly meeting at Marge Greanya's on June 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bailey recently went on a fishing trip. They enjoyed a successful holiday.

Birthday greetings for June go to Doris MacDougall, Cheryl Tattersall and Lil Wheadon.

Sandy Homme visited Eleanor Tattersall for a couple of days.

Annual July 1st Sports Held at Tomahawk

The annual Tomahawk July 1st picnic got underway this year with a parade just before noon. First prize was won by the Southend F.U.A. Local, second by Medd-O-View Farm and third by the Tomahawk Community Club.

Members of the Pee-Wee Beef Club showed their calves following the parade with Dean Harrison winning the Grand Championship.

Reserve Championship was won by Roy Brydges and Showmanship by Lori Ditchuk.

The calves were sold later in the day by Wendy Sekura and club members were quite pleased with the prices they received.

Baseball highlighted the afternoon starting with a 6-4 victory by the Moon Lake Owls over the Tomahawk Tom Thumbs. The local Mites had better luck and won their game against Ramona by a score of 26 to 6.

In the next game, Tomahawk Bantams defeated Rocky 14 to 10. The Midgets lost to Barrhead by a 28-10 score.

While the baseball games were in progress, bingo was underway as well as games for children.

A slave sale was also a part of the afternoon events with Wendy Sekura again doing the auctioning, and for his help, the Community Club extends its thanks.

The club also expressed its pleasure at the success of the day and how nice it was to see so many people from the surrounding area attend the holiday events in the community.

U.I.C. Plans Edson Office

OTTAWA - The Hon. Bryce Mackasey, Minister of Labour, announced last week that the Unemployment Insurance Commission is planning a large scale re-organization of its existing offices and opening new offices to meet the needs of the Canadian workforce.

By the end of this summer more more than 100 new offices will a add to the service provided by the the 60 now in full time operation. Edson has been selected as the location of one of the new offices

"Our job", says Labour Minister Bryce Mackasey, "is to provide a fast, efficient service designed to meet the needs of people."

Mr. Mackasey added that one reason for the establishment of new offices was the need to implement the sweeping provisions of the new Unemployment Insurance Act now awaiting Parliamentary approval.

Report From Parliament Hill

By Allen Sulatycky, M.P.

For the last three years Finance Minister Edgar Benson has borne the brunt of all criticism of the Federal Government's economic policies. He bore a very unpleasant task very well.

It must have therefore been particularly pleasant for him the day after he presented his most recent budget to hear himself referred to as "good ole' Ben". As one columnist put it, "Jack and Jill Canadian were finally ready to give him some Brownie points".

The fact that Benson was able to bring about a series of very important and profound tax changes which will result in lower taxes for almost all Canadians is just one of the welcome aspects of the budget.

Of even more far-reaching effect and value is the vindication of the process of "participatory democracy" which was tested by the government in leading up to the budget.

The process began in November 1969 when the Government tabled a White Paper on Tax Reform which set out certain proposals for changes in the income tax system designed to make the system more equitable for all Canadians. Some of the proposals were a very marked departure from currently accepted taxation procedures.

Shortly after the White Paper was introduced to the Canadian public a great many citizens began to comment on it. Many of the comments included recommendations for changes. This represented the first time in history that a government had allowed the people to advise it on changes in the tax system. Up to this point, any changes in the system were kept secret until they were revealed in a budget speech and thereafter there was no way in which the public could positively influence the changes.

Some people predictably reacted hysterically in the belief that the government would introduce changes exactly as detailed in the White Paper. Throughout the long debate Government spokesmen insisted that they wanted to listen to the responsible submissions of citizens on the type of tax system which the majority of the people desired.

Mr. Benson's budget and the tax changes outlined in it should be clear proof of the Government's sincerity.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

By Kevin Peterson and Don Sellar (Of the Calgary Herald)

Political organizers are cleaning up the remaining handful of nominations which will precede Premier Harry Strom's anticipated fall election call.

The Social Credit and Conservative parties have only four more nominating meetings each to fill out their 75-man slates.

A renewed outburst of cabinet ministers' attacks against the Conservative Opposition on the Athabasca Delta issue is perhaps the most obvious sign that an election is at hand.

Enviroment Minister J. D. Henderson began the barrage in Opposition leader Peter Lougheed's home constituency of Calgary-West by criticizing Mr. Lougheed's use of a Fort Chipewyan trapper's petition to dramatize the plight of Athabasca Delta residents who feel the W.A.C. Bennett Dam upstream has harmed their livelihood.

Mr. Henderson called Mr. Lougheed's actions "sham and political hypocrisy," and predicted the forthcoming election campaign will be one of the dirtiest in Alberta's history.

The environment minister's Calgary-West speech was the springboard for two further government attacks on the Opposition, these ones by Public Works Minister Albert Ludwig and Labor and Telephones Minister Ray Reierson at another pair of Socred nominating meetings in Calgary.

Mr. Reierson went so far as to suggest the only issues upon which the two major parties will do battle are "Mundane."

The Conservatives, moving cautiously toward election day, chose not to reply to the Socred cabinet ministers. It is Mr. Lougheed's style to fight the government on his own ground and concentrate on organizing his forces rather than responding to every cabinet minister's speech.

Social Credit sources present at the government party's last caucus in Edmonton gave every indication that the next closed-door meeting of candidates will be the vital one.

Premier Strom is expected to haul out the Socred policy platform and discuss it with his political colleagues before launching the election campaign. There are indications he was reluctant to discuss election strategy and Socred policy in depth with retiring MLA's who might leak the goodies to the press.

The Socreds announced no specific date for their July caucus -- another hint that its timing will be a major factor in the election date which will follow issuing of the election writs by 39 days.

Mr. Strom, who remains untested at the polls and has held the premier's job during a period in which five of seven election-going premiers have been turfed out of office, says the Alberta election will be held this year.

He also maintains he has the precise date fixed in his mind, but hasn't told the cabinet -- or even his wife -- what it will be.

Editorial Comment

Look Before You Leap

A good example of not looking before leaping was our editorial headed "The Ticket Tax" of April 27th. We committed the error of allowing ourselves to be carried away with enthusiasm of the moment before checking all the facts.

We commented on its possible adverse affects on ticket sales by small organizations, such as church and youth groups. Had we looked closer we would have found that the tax is not applicable until the total lottery prizes reach $5,000 -- and not likely to be within the reach of small groups.

It doesn't seem unfair to ask a contribution for provincial benefits of sweepstakes and lotteries whose scale of operation exceeds the $5,000 prize mark.

Young People Read More

Each generation has a tendency to look on those in the generations that follows as being somewhat nuts. Not literally, of course, but at least insofar as speech, dress and choice of music is concerned.

It's what is known as the generation gap.

We can agree, of course, that those who constitute the youth generation today do a lot of funny things -- funny at least to those of us who, faced with advancing years, are accused of being out of touch.

Perhaps things aren't as bad as they seem. At least the kids are reading more and watching television less according to a recent conference of newspaper people.

The findings of a study for the Bureau of Advertising of media habits and attitudes of a national sample of 1,600 young people between the ages of 14 and 25 showed that 73 percent of those in the 14-25 age group read one or more newspapers on the average weekday. This compared with 78 percent of all adults.

The study report also made these points:

Young people typically spend almost as much time with each newspaper as the average adult, and they absorb the advertising as well as the editorial content.

Young people who are most mature, most responsible, and more likely to attain future leadership are the most likely to read the newspaper on any given day.

As young people grow up they read newspapers more and watch television less.

The research results showed that 72 percent of freshmen and sophomores and 81 percent of juniors and seniors in high school read a newspaper on the average weekday.

Recommendations for Contact With Suspected Rabid Animal

What should a person do if he suspects that an animal has rabies or that he may have been in physical contact with a rabid animal?

Dale Alsager, zoologist with the Alberta plant industry division and co-ordinator of the province's rabies vector control program, recommends the following procedure for dealing with a rabid animal or an animal which is suspected of being rabid.

* If you come across what appears to be a rabid animal immediately notify the official for your area in the health of animals branch of the Canada Department of Agriculture, your veterinarian, pest control officer, fish and wildlife officer, police officer or district agriculturist.

* If somebody has been bitten get immediate medical attention. If a doctor is not available, wash out the wound thoroughly for 15 or 20 minutes with strong soap and change the water frequently. Then apply an antiseptic and get in touch with a doctor as soon as possible.

* If an animal is bitten by another animal that is suspected of being rabid, confine it away from people and animals. Contact one of the above officials immediately.

* Make every effort to capture or confine an animal that is suspected of being rabid so that a reasonable definite diagnosis can be established before the animal is killed. This procedure is recommended to prevent the unnecessary killing of non-rabid animals.

* If an animal must be killed in order to capture it, do not shoot it in the head. To be any use for laboratory examination, the brain must be undamaged.

* Do not allow animals or people to come in contact with the carcass, saliva, blood or body fluids of a dead animal suspected of having been rabid. Contamination from any of these, through a scratch or cut, can cause rabies.

* Keep the head of an animal which was killed because of suspected rabies as cool as possible (let it freeze in winter) until you can get it to a laboratory for diagnosis. Warmth causes the brain tissues to deteriorate rapidly, making them useless for diagnosis.

* Always wear heavy gloves if you have to handle an animal which is suspected of having rabies, an animal that may have just been bitten by one that is suspected of having rabies, or any object which may have saliva on it from an animal suspected of having rabies.

* Do not put your fingers or hand into an animal's mouth if it appears to be choking. You could be exposing yourself to rabies if you had a cut or scratch on your hand.

* Do not touch with your bare hands any wild animal (skunk, squirrel, chipmunk, gopher, bat, etc.) which appears to be sick or unusually tame.

Kneel or sit low in a canoe. If upset, HANG ON until help arrives.

HART CANTELON

Readers wishing to write to Mr. Cantelon are invited to do so. All letters to be forwarded to Hart Cantelon Counselling Services Ltd., 1600 Cambridge Building, Edmonton. Please include a stamped self-addressed envelope to ensure a reply.

Dear Mr. Cantelon:

There is no doubt that my husband is an Alcholic. For eight years he has promised to stop, but it is going from bad to worse. We live on a farm sixty miles from the nearest city. We have five children, ages fourteen to one and a half. The eldest lad is very discouraged with his Dad. The older children are left to do the out-door chores, milking, etc. so very often as my husband doesn't get home from town. The past year he has worked only about two days of the week on the farm. The rest of the time he spends at the beer parlor. This has left us with no money and little support.

We had it out the other night, and I gave him one month in which to get help. But he says, that he can quit by himself. On the radio, the other day, you said to get more information on this problem and I would appreciate any suggestion as to what to do next.

Dear Worried Mother and Wife:

There is no doubt but what your husband is in the throes of an Alcholic problem. Alcholism is like creeping paralysis. It tends to be most devestating for men who live in a rural area. The one common meeting place for many men, seems to be the beer parlor, and the frequency in which the occasion of these gatherings occurs, slowly but surely goes from bad to worse. If you look back over the past five years, you will be able to see this pattern developing. My guess is that five years ago, your husband may not have gone to town to drink but once a week, now he is going three and four times a week. It is like wading into a stream, and then suddenly you are beyond your depth, and unable to help yourself. It is exactly at this point, that your husband is making his mistake. He thinks that he can stop himself, but no statement, though sincerely offered, could be further from the truth. I want you to write to "The Division of Alcholism" in your nearest city - The Provincial Government is where you address your letter too, and get some phamplets that will help you out. There is also a personal assessment test whereby answering a series of questions, with a simple yes or no, you are able to evaluate the seriousness of the drinking problem, that you are encountering. Your husband need not continue in this way of living. Help is available and I have suggested a practical step to you. If he is willing to take counselling, then by all means, get him into a counselling situation where face to face he can work the problem through.

Dear Mr. Cantelon:

My concern is with regard to a situation which I feel is unhealthy. It concerns a middle-aged family man, and a young mother who was just recently separated. They seem to be drawing towards each other. I find it hard to relate to both of these people, though they are my friends, knowing what is going on. It upsets me terribly. I have concern for both of their families. I know that there is no easy way without being accused of interfering and not minding my own business. I do not want to be nosy, but on the other hand, it hurts me to see your fellowman being so foolish. How can a person help as an outsider?

Dear Friend:

You cannot do very much except to keep the lines of communication open with both of these people, in the hope that they come to realize you are the kind of person that they can come to in confidence and eventually share with you what is really going on. Then, at that point, you suggest that they go and get some help outside of the community entirely, if there is no-one that they feel they can trust near at hand. One of our temptations, is to treat adults as though they were children. If you saw two neighbors children doing something wrong, you would have every right to enter into the situation, and direct them accordingly. But you cannot do this with adults, even though they may act like children. So do not separate yourself from them. Jesus is our example here. He hated 'the sin' but never hated the sinner. So be the kind of person that can be talked too, and hope and pray one or both will see the light before it is too late.

Proposed improvements to the road west of section 10-54-1-5 Written report of inspection made by the Public Works Committee on June 24, 1971 was presented to the Council with the recommendation that this road be upgraded and gravelled at an estimated cost of $2,000.00. Report and recommendation accepted.

PUBLIC WORKS TO BE UNDERTAKEN

Public Works to be undertaken was approved as follows:

Ditch, upgrade and gravel 1½ miles west of the S.W. 25, south of 26 and west of the N.W. 23-53-5-5 at an estimated cost of $5,000.00.

Councillor Robert A. Bailey arrived at the meeting at this time.

Messrs. A. B. Samuel and Gene Lichka of Associated Engineering Services Ltd. were present at the meeting to discuss with the Council policy regarding the proposed water line from the City of Edmonton.

A delegation from the Municipal District of Sturgeon No. 90 consisting of the Secretary-Treasurer and four members of the Council were present at the meeting and presented a cost-sharing proposal to improve the railroad crossing and road on the east side of the N.E. 15-53-25-4 (156th street).

This matter was held in abeyance for further consideration at a later date.

Councillor Robert A. Bailey excused himself from the meeting at this time.

Mr. Ben MacLeod of R. R. #1 Spruce Grove was present at the meeting in connection with the assessment of the improvements on LSD 12-6-52-26-4 (40 Acres).

Mr. MacLeod made his complaint on the basis of not having received the assessment notice and was advised that the notice was mailed to the only address on record in the office which was provided by the Land Titles Office

It was agreed that no action be taken regarding this assessment for 1971 and that the matter be referred to the Assessment Department for reinspection for 1972 taxation purposes.

Request for cancellation of the road diversion in the N.E. 19-51-25-4 was received from Mr. J. R. Mott of R.R. #5, Edmonton. It was agreed that this request be refused.

ASCOT BEACH INSPECTION

Councillor Mann submitted a written report of inspection he had made in Ascot Beach because of the absence of Councillor Lent due to illness.

The report recommended that a culvert be placed in the road adjacent to Lot 2, Block 13, Plan 5174K.S. to allow the water to drain east into a ditch. The report also revealed that the owner of Lot 2, Block 13 requested that garbage disposal cans be placed on the Park Reserve in this area.

Report accepted.

Mr. William Albrecht of Stony Plain called on the Council regarding the condition of the road south of sections 14 and 15-53-1-5. He informed the Council that portions of this road have become impassable due to recent rains.

The matter was referred to the Public Works Committee for inspection.

Mr. H. M. Grande of Seba Beach was present at the meeting in connection with the report submitted by the Deputy-Minister of Municipal Affairs regarding an investigation made into the financial affairs of the County.

Since this report was just recently received, allowing no time for proper study before this meeting it was decided to deal with this matter further at the next regular meeting of the Council.

It was agreed that Mr. William Albrecht of Stony Plain be appointed as Poundkeeper for the County with the Pound to be located on the N.W. 1-53-28-4.

EVANSBURG AREA NEWS

PARKCOURT NEWS

The school children have begun their holidays and while some are getting ready to enjoy themselves others are still coping with the chicken pox. We hope everyone is feeling better soon. Exciting days for next year's beginners are also over.

Many people from the district joined in the party Saturday night to honor two retiring teachers, Mrs. A. Proehl and Mrs. W. Brenenstuhl. Both are old timers, Mrs. Proehl having lived and taught here for many years.

Ray and Don Fausak spent the weekend holidaying in Jasper.

Mrs. Harvey Marchand is spending a week holidaying at her mother's in Wainwright.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. V. Newhold was taken to Drayton Valley with a broken leg on Tuesday.

SOIL AND ORGANIC MATTER

Scientists at the Canada Agriculture Research Station at Lethbridge, Alberta, are looking for ways to replenish organic matter in both dryland and irrigated soils.

Organic matter is a source of plant nutrients. It also improves the soil because it holds water like a sponge and helps prevent erosion.

The scientists are studying the breakdown of organic matter and the organisms responsible for the breakdown. They feel the information obtained will add much to the understanding of organic matter in soils.

Community Fetes Retiring Teachers

Mrs. A.C. Proehl who has lived in the Evansburg District since the early 1930's and has taught school in Evansburg steadily since 1959 is now retiring.

She was born near Lacombe and attended Haultain Public School and Central High School in Calgary. She received her teacher training in the Calgary Normal School.

In her early teaching days, she taught in small schools in Hanna, Champion, Vulcan, and Poe. She came to the Park Court District and taught one year there in 1930 and again in 1945.

She left teaching for some years and resumed her career in 1959 at the Evansburg School where she taught grade 5. She moved to the new Evansview school in 1963 and has been teaching there until the present time.

She has taught all subjects in the upper elementary grades but has been specializing in Music the last few years.

Mrs. W. Brenenstuhl has been teaching for 46 years - 33 years with the Yellowhead School Division. She was born in Killam, attended the Killam Public High School and took her teacher training at Camrose.

She taught for the Crafts School District, Cherhill from 1925 to 1927; for Duhamel Village from 1927 to 1929; Dog Pound Village from 1929 to 1932; Killam from 1932 to 1937; Brookdale Jr. Room from 1937 to 1938; Wildwood from 1938 to 1940; Holly Springs (Styal) from 1940 to 1956; and Evansburg School from 1956 to 1971.

She was married to William Brenenstuhl on December 23, 1939 and has one son. She has been teaching at the Evansview Elementary School for the past 11 years.

Both Mr. Proehl and Mrs. Brenenstuhl are well known and well liked in and around Evansburg and have received gifts and recognition from their many friends and associates in honor of their long service.

A barbecue and a social evening was held in their honor during the last week of June.

Mrs. Brenenstuhl has been awarded a life membership in the A.T.A. with all the benefits. She is to receive a certificate of her long and faithful service.

The Junior Citizen of the Year program, in its 10th year, publicly recognizes and gives encouragement to young Albertans for exemplary conduct. Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Grant MacEwan will present the awards again this year, during the annual AWNA convention.

To celebrate the program's anniversary, the awards have been increased to $200. In the past, the awards included a $50 Canada Savings Bond, a citation, framed certificate and lapel pin.

Candidates for the Junior Citizen awards are nominated by Albertans, through the editors of weekly newspapers throughout the province.

Calgary Power Ltd. sponsors a maximum of six individuals and one group award from the company's service area. Canadian Utilities and Northland Utilities jointly sponsor a maximum of three individuals and one group from their service areas.

The parents of the award winners are included, as guests of the electric utilities, at the awards luncheon. The group will tour the Legislative Buildings prior to lunch, and the Provincial Museum and Archives after.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the editor of The Western Review. Deadline for entries is July 31st.

The 1971 edition of "Chemical Weed Control in Cereal and Oilseed Crops" is now available. It contains all the new chemicals that have been licensed during the last year. Farmers using herbicides this season would be wise to get a copy from their district agriculturist or municipal agricultural fieldman.

Alfalfa is no longer a consistantly high yielding forage crop in certain areas of central Alberta. Growth in affected fields is generally poor except for small patches scattered throughout the field. The affected plants are short, spindly, yellowish-green in color and poorly nodulated. Most of the affected fields examined to date have been in Dark Gray or Gray Wooded soils. The soils in these fields usually have been acid, sandy loam in texture, and from the area west and southwest of Edmonton.

It is not possible yet to estimate how large an acreage in Alberta is affected by "alfalfa sickness," but is believed to be about 500,000 acres of pure and mixed stands of alfalfa are being grown on susceptible soils.

At our Soils and Fertilizer Short Course in Edmonton (which 15 producers from Stony Plain and district attended) last winter instructors from the Soils and Feed Testing Lab. indicated the following causes were being investigated: Soil acidity; loam deficiency; caused by a virus; related to high water requirement; or toxic materials released by first-crop. Producers have noticed that alfalfa disease has a tendency to occur on lighter soils and that there are not as many nodules on older alfalfa stands.

However, Dr. G. R. Webster, of the Soil Science Department, University of Alberta has shown that the disease is not a nutritional one, nor is it caused by moisture deficiency. There is good evidence, however, that 'sick' soils contain toxic materials of biological origin that are responsible for the poor growth.

Dr. J. D. McElgunn, a plant physiologist with the CDA Research Station, Swift Current, Saskatchewan is investigating the composition of extracts made from 'sick' soil and determining their potential for inducing symptoms in alfalfa 'sickness' is so-called healthy soils.

The CDA Research Station at Lethbridge became involved in the problem in 1970 when a tiny nematode (called Paratylenchus projectus) was discovered in the root zone of the stunned plants.

This nematode is parasitic on alfalfa and some 88 other species of plants. Among these are oats, bromegrass, red fescue, barley, rye, wheat, white sweet cover, red clover, and ladino white clover.

At Lethbridge the nematological and plant pathological aspects of the problem will be studied. The first objective will be to determine the possible role of the nematode in the initiation and development of alfalfa 'sickness'.

Control of the problem will depend on the results of research currently in progress. Should the nematode prove to be the principal cause, then appropriate cultural practices can be recommended to control the condition until our plant breeders can incorporate nematode resistance into an alfalfa variety suited to the area. If fungi and/or bacteria alone or in a combination with the nematode, are found to be the cause, then control may be more difficult to obtain.

Caribou of the Yukon Territory's Porcupine herd crossing the Peel River, during their annual spring migration from wintering ranges south of Old Crow to calving grounds along the Arctic coastal plain. First extensive survey of caribou in the western Canadian arctic indicates that the population of Porcupine caribou herd may number 60,000 to 65,000 nearly double previous estimates of about 35,000. The caribou survey is part of extensive northern wildlife studies being conducted for the Northwest Project Study Group along possible routes of a proposed $3 billion natural gas pipeline from Prudhoe Bay on the North Slope of Alaska.

Caution Necessary When Entering Confined Spaces

Never go down a water well or into an airtight storage space without first ventilating it thoroughly and checking for the presence of toxic gases, advises K. R. Schrag of the Alberta department of health and social development.

By airtight storage space, Mr. Schrag is referring to vertical silos, metal grain bins, manure pits and tanks, septic tanks, fuel tanks, coolers and other airtight space with limited access.

Water wells and airtight storage spaces can be ventilated to offset a possible lack of polythene tubing or canvas hose into them and attaching the end to a piece of farm machinery such as a forest harvester or silage blower. Even a household furnace fan can be used to force air into a well or storage area. Both should be ventilated for at least 10 minutes, Mr. Schray says. Ventilating is particularly important when water is present because the oxygen in the air gradually dissolves into the water.

In the case of a water well, the seepage from the barnyard can carry organic matter which, upon decomposition, may release carbon dioxide and other toxic gases. Toxic gases such as hydrogen sulphide are the main source of danger in manure pits and tanks and also in silos. They are given off by the decomposed organic material. Food in a cooler can also give off toxic gases. It is known, for example, that apples give off carbon dioxide while in storage.

The only way to check for the presence of toxic gases is to use a portable gas detector. A Davis Safety lamp is the ideal piece of equipment to use for testing for combustible gases and a lack of oxygen. If the flame goes out when it is placed in the confined area it means that there is a lack of oxygen. If, on the other hand, it flares up, there are combustible gases present. An ordinary kerosene lantern will perform the same service; but if combustible gases are present, there is a danger of a fire or an explosion.

Finally, anybody entering a water well or a confined space should always wear a safety harness attached to a rope, and have somebody observing him from outside. If necessary, this person can get the man in the well, or tank, out by way of a winch, when one is available, or by attracting the attention of others. It should be noted, points out Mr. Schray, that in the absence of a winch it takes at least three men to haul one person up vertically.

Wear a government-approved LIFE-JACKET when water skiing. Have a lookout man in your tow-boat.

Did you know that a good grade two-year old dairy goat will produce enough milk to pay for herself in 10 months or that goats' milk is particularly good for infants and invalids because its minute fat globules make it easy to digest?

Cool, Wet June Helped Suppress Hail Activity

The cool wet weather in the middle of June brought little in the way of hailstorms to the Alberta Hail Studies Project area. There were a few scattered storms with hail up to grape size, but these were all short-lived and caused no serious damage.

The first widespread hail activity of the summer hit central Alberta on Friday, June 25, with hail up to golfball size. This activity was triggered off by an upper disturbance moving east over the Rockies and bringing in much colder air aloft - one of the necessary conditions for severe storms. The first radar echoes showed up along the foothills from west of Sundre to near Nordegg at lunchtime. Some grew rapidly to a height of over 8 miles - a good indicator of hail - and several reports of walnut to golfball size hail were in fact received in a swath coming out from the foothills along the James River.

During the afternoon a surface low pressure area intensified over Alberta and the storms merged to form a long squall line which moved rapidly east with gusts of wind in excess of 60 mph in places. This weather system was responsible for the tornado in the Wostok area and a wide band of hail through central Alberta. Most of the hail was shot to grape size and in spite of the strong winds caused little damage. However, there were some pockets of larger hail giving severe damage, especially along a swath from Lacombe to east of Camrose. Hail up to walnut and golfball size was covering the ground in places.

A cloud seeding experiment was conducted on this storm system. The southern end of the line was seeded with 28 silver iodide flares as it passed near Red Deer. A telephone survey carried out by Hail Studies staff all through Saturday and Sunday collected nearly 1000 precipitation reports. In addition, many more reports are coming in by mail and a very detailed picture of the hail pattern at the ground has emerged.

Over 40 precipitation samples were collected by the sampling network and these are now being analyzed for their silver content. This will indicate where the silver iodide put into the storm came out in the rain and hail, and help in evaluating the effects of the seeding.

KEEPHILLS NEWS

Reg. Smith from Pickardville visited his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raymond here on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Raymond visited their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Strassburger of Stony Plain on Thursday. They are in the process of packing and will be moving into Edmonton where they have bought a new home.

June 25th was Awards Night at the Keephills School, many of the children received awards, medals and certificates. Mr. and Mrs. Ditcher were presented with a gift from the school children, as well as a purse of money from the parents in appreciation of Mr. Ditcher's work at the school for the past year. They left for England on July 2nd.

Due to cool weather and sickness Ken, Viola and Jackie Porter were the only ones from this area to attend an annual getogether for the Raymond family on Sunday, June 27th. For several years this has been held at Aspen Beach, Gull Lake, which was considered most central. Last year sixty-seven attended but this year the attendance was much less.

Roger Raymond is still in the General Hospital in Edmonton after having his foot cut by a lawn mower. Last week his doctor did some skin grafting on his foot and may do more this week.

No improvement has been heard of in the condition of Dougie Shepherd of Edson who was hit by a car on the Highway near his home on June 12th. Dougie is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walker of Edson, formerly of Burtonsville.

Flora and Lindsay Porter visited Alice and Marshall Hewett at Bon Accord for the weekend.

John and Barbara Tinny have a new baby son, born June 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tinny are leaving for holiday in B.C.

Ken, Viola and Jackie Porter visited with Gerald and Sandy Porter at Leduc Sunday evening.

Second in a public information series on new government programs.

alberta's way to responsible youth

what age of majority means

Demon Rum. That seems to be what a lot of people are remembering about lowering the age of majority.

But, there's a lot more to being an adult at 18 than being admitted to bars or the right to drink! Because now in Alberta you're an adult at 18, in every sense of the word.

think of it this way

Basically any law over which the province of Alberta has jurisdiction has been changed so that where "adult" meant those 21 and over, it now means those 18 and over.

some examples

Now, when you are 18 you may enter into a binding business contract in your own name.

Court orders that would be enacted upon an individual attaining the age of 21 (where 21 meant attaining adulthood) now will be enacted when the individual becomes 18.

Now, when you are 18 you may marry without the consent of a parent or you may obtain a mortgage to buy a home or buy a car without a co-signer.

Being an adult at 18 means you can execute a will.

You may also vote in provincial elections. And, municipal elections where the local council has decided to change the appropriate by-law.

remember

When the age of 18 has been attained the individual is legally responsible for all of his or her actions.

Lowering the age of majority. It's Alberta's way to responsible youth.

Community Fetes Four Residents

Four Magnolia area residents were honored by the community on the evening of June 12th. They were Mrs. Irene Myslicki, Mrs. Betty McDougal, Mr. D. Churchill and Mr. Fred Sorensen.

Mrs. Irene Myslickd came to Canada from Poland in 1930. She has lived on the same farm overlooking the railway since 1935. Mrs. Myslicki has three daughters and one son. All aspects of farm life and especially gardening are Mrs. Myslicki's pet interests.

Betty McDougall was born on June 8th, Fifeshire, Chapmannan, Scotland. There were seven children in her family. Betty decided distant fields looked green so in 1938 she set out for Canada and arrived to stay with her Uncle Archie at Storthoks, Saskatchewan.

Betty came to a farm in our district about twenty-five years ago and there she raised her three sons and one daughter.

She has a variety of interests including gardening, a multitude of house plants, her grandchildren and many handicrafts.

Mr. Fred Sorensen came to Canada in 1939 from Jutland Denmark. He is one of seven children.

Upon arriving Fred worked on dairy farms by Edmonton until 1953. He tells me his day began at 4:00 a.m. in the morning to milk twenty cows and for all that work he got the fantastic wage of fifty cents a day.

In 1953 the Magnolia district looked good to Fred and he has lived here ever since.

His life revolves around helping his friends and neighbours, the country, a keen interest in wild life and life in general.

Mr. Churchill was born in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia in 1888 to United Empire Loyalist parents. In 1911 he came to Western Canada on a $10.00 harvest plan and says he never made enough money to return East

He joined the Royal North West Mounted Police in 1913 and was posted to Fort Simpson. He also had a post at Nahani, the area of the famous "Headless Valley" legend. Mr. Churchill enlisted in the C.E.F. cavalry in the World War I and was sent to Siberia.

After he returned he tried farming and went broke. Later he took a job with the N.A.R. as a "Gandy Dancer", a labourer in a railroad section gang. Following this he returned to his ho homestead and semi-starvation during the dirty thirties.

In the spring of 1940 he enlisted in the Calgary Highlanders and spent five years in England. Here he was trained as a hospital cook as he was slightly too old for combat duty. On returning to Canada he worked with the Salmon Fisheries on the west coast for two years.

On a visit to Magnolia he fell in love with the little farm on the corner and when it came on the market he bought it. He has lived there ever since that day.

Mr. Churchill has three sons, two in Alberta and one in B. C., also one daughter who resides in Halifax.

Mr. Churchill grows and loves his many flowers.

Livestock Market Review, 1970

A 10 percent increase in pork production was the major feature of the Canadian livestock market last year.

The increase in hog marketings more than offset declines in marketings of other classes of livestock.

The net result was a three percent increase in the supply of meat available for domestic use last year.

Marketings of all cattle declined by 2.6 percent during the year, although demand was consistently strong throughout the year, and prices were the steadiest on record.

Sheep and lamb marketings were down by 18.6 percent. Total output through commercial channels and inspected slaughterings was the lowest on record.

The figures are contained in a detailed 105-page report issued recently by the Markets Information Section of the Production and Marketing Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture.
